Youth Science Canada (YSC) is pleased to announce that the Ambassador Program will be returning for the 2018 Canada-Wide Science Fair in Ottawa, Ontario.

We are now accepting applications. Please see below for details. If you qualify, we look forward to your application. Otherwise, please share the information with potential applicants.

The CWSF Ambassadors are former CWSF finalists who have graduated from secondary school and who interact with finalists and chaperones throughout the week. Ambassadors have the opportunity to help deliver Canada's premiere youth science event.

The CWSF Ambassadors are members of the YSC CWSF Host Team (TEAM UV) ? the staff and volunteers responsible for the planning and successful implementation of a professional, high-impact annual event.

A very limited number of positions is available. This year, Youth Science Canada will select a total of 6 ambassadors.

The Ambassadors role & responsibilities during the week include:

- Participant interaction: Welcome/greetings on arrival day, meet with finalists at events/activities throughout the week, encourage finalists to network with each other and enjoy the week, etc.
- Exhibit Hall: Help with project set-up/take-down, assist the Exhibit Hall Coordinator, and support finalists during activity rotation.
- Finalist Support: Assist finalists throughout the week, and particularly on judging day.
- Awards Ceremony: Assist with the Awards Ceremony and Farewell Festivities.

Ambassadors will be screened based on their application. Shortlisted Candidates will be contacted by email for a follow-up interview in late January. Successful applicants will be notified in early February.

All successful applicants will have their travel (within Canada) and CWSF registration costs (including accommodation and meals) covered.
